How Not To Act at Town Meetings . . .

V. R. Moreno

NOTE: We want to apologize for not having the follow-up on the "actions on town meeting floor - - -" (Even we run out of time - - -)

Now we want to make several corrections on the June 29 editorial - - - it stated that the "excise tax in the thirty's was $6.00 or less - - -" It should have stated "six thousand, $6,000 or less - - -" and the 1966 excise taxes assessed was $490,000 according to - - - "A.N. Office, or about $12.00 per thousand on your present tax rate - - -" last quote was in error, it was stated this way when it left my desk - - - "according to - - - the assessor's annual report and represents about $14.00 on your tax rate - - -"

BACK TO TOWN MEETING---

When Reynolds completed his "out of order" statement - - - the hoo-rahs took over the meeting - - - the meeting at this point was completely out of hand - - - the representative of the sponsor of Article 16 - - - was waiting to be heard - - - but was ignored - - - finally the noise subsided without any aid from the moderator - - - the moderator wanted to know who was at the microphone, when the person at the "mike" answered "I represent the petitioners - - -" the mob again rained abuse on the speaker - - - (NOTE: No action by the moderator on any single member of the town meeting - - - No call for the sgt.-at-arms to throw the "mob" out - - - nothing - - -) The moderator gave the attorney for the petitioner - - - "one minute" - - - then thought better of it and changed it to "five minutes" - - - which is his limit rule - - - but - - - he had just allowed Reynolds to break that rule - - -

Not by any stretch of an imagination was that speaker shown the courtesy due any citizen of the town - - - a most disgraceful action - - - and every public official - - - town meeting member - - - and person present should hang their head in shame for allowing such uncouth actions to take place - - - Now let's go to the bigger crime - - - the crime of EVERY TOWN MEETING MEMBER - - - who voted on an issue before them without even knowing - - - who, what, when, where, why - - - the article was all about - - - remember, the Planning Board voted in favor of the passage of this article - - - they now say, quote - - - "You know if the owner of that land goes to court they will win the case - - -" this from town meeting members - - - the same town meeting members who didn't have the - - - "guts" - - - to vote their convictions - - - or those who wouldn't listen to both sides of the story before they voted - - - and those, perhaps all of them, who were allowed to be swayed by mob rule - - -

We make this point - - - analogous - - - "Townpeople - - - town meeting members - - - officials - - - keep in mind this fact - - - the actions at the Agawam town meeting last - - - once allowed to prevail - - - is typical of the basis of riots, revolutions - - - mob upheavals, etc. - - -"

Western Bank Anniversary Dividend

Directors of the Western Bank and Trust Company of West Springfield have declared a fifth anniversary dividend of 15 cents per share, William A. Franks, Jr., president, announced today.

Mr. Franks said the dividend is payable July 14 to stock of record June 26. There are 28,000 shares of Western Bank and Trust outstanding.

"Western Bank and Trust has enjoyed an auspicious record of growth since its organization five years ago," Mr. Franks said, "and this record is attributable in large part to the excellent acceptance of our services by the people and the businesses of the community."

"Our total assets now exceed the $6 million mark, which means that we have maintained an annual growth total of well over $1 million a year since Western Bank and Trust was founded."

Mr. Franks said the bank has just completed an extensive expansion and modernization at its main office on Central Street, "giving us one third more space and making it possible for us to better serve our customers."

The bank's branch office at 1000 Riverdale Street continues to record continued growth, Mr. Franks said.

Officers of the bank, in addition to Mr. Franks, are: James H. Buckley, Jr., chairman of the board; Milton R. Berman, vice-president; Robert S. Rider, vice-president and treasurer; Robert Wing, assistant vice-president; Gerard E. Drapeau and Raymond Guevin, assistant treasurers; Donald F. Collins, secretary.

Population Under 14 Years To Be Surveyed Here By Census

Information about the number of children under 14 as well as the number of owner-occupied and rented households will be collected in a census bureau survey to be conducted here during the week of July 17, Director James W. Turbitt of the Census Regional Office in Boston announced today.

The information will help population experts in determining national population trends and will provide important economic data about U.S. households.

The questions are part of the bureau's monthly Current Population Survey taken from a sample of the population throughout the U.S. Simultaneously, questions about employment and unemployment will also be asked for the Department of Labor's Bureau of Labor Statistics to determine national employment and unemployment trends.

The identity of households participating in the survey is confidential and the facts obtained are used only for statistical purposes.

Census interviewers who will be working in this area are: Mrs. Margaret Spooner, West Springfield; Mrs. Louise Shuart, Springfield; and Mrs. Alfreda Sokolowski, Springfield.

Frank George Prew, 182 Cooper Street, received CTET (certificate in the teaching of engineering technology) from the University of Illinois.

Westfield Savings Bank Establishes New Records

WESTFIELD - Westfield Savings Bank is continuing to establish new records in all banking categories, Arthur W. Knapp, president, told the quarterly meeting of the board of trustees at the Sheraton Inn, Friday night. Henry F. Burrows, chairman of the board, presided.

Mr. Knapp said that total assets, which only early this year achieved the milestone $50 million mark, had grown to $52,538,181 on June 30 of this year.

The trustees voted a record high dividend of $990,000 during the meeting. This sum, payable on July 10, represents dividends of 4-1/2 per cent on regular savings accounts and 4-3/4 per cent on special notice accounts.

Mr. Knapp said the current dividend payment, plus the $955,942 paid to the bank's approximately 30,000 savers in January, brings the total dividend pay out in the past year to $1,945,942, also a record amount.

Savings deposits on June 30 of this year were an all time high of $45,383,729, with the gain for the past three months amounting to $992,220.

Mortgage demand remains very strong - with "record demand" - and Westfield Savings Bank's real estate loans on June 30 were at the peak figure of $38,052,892. The increase in real estate loans during the three months ending June 30 was $1,098,176, he told the trustees. He noted that the bank's real estate investments included many communities in the area, with the bulk of the investments in Westfield, West Springfield, Agawam and Southwick.

The trustees were told of the recently completed purchase of almost two acres of land at 643 Main Street, Agawam, on which Westfield Savings will construct its new Agawam office.

The present schedule calls for construction to begin in August, Mr. Knapp said, with the new office to open before the end of the year.

Agawam Youths To Perform At Cleveland Convention

A trio of young musicians from Agawam will be performing at the 66th annual convention of the American Guild of Music to be held at the Sheraton Hotel in Cleveland, Ohio, July 16th through 22nd. The annual event has an attendance of over 5,000 young music makers from United States, Canada, Hawaii, and England with all indications for a record attendance this year.

DAVID PERRUSSE, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Perrusse of Adams Street, will be performing in the accordion and cordovox division and also in an ensemble with NORMAN AVONDO, son of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Avondo of King Avenue, and JOSEPH DYNIA, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ted Dynia of Springfield Street, Agawam. Studios of West Springfield and all have won awards and trophies in past music contests held on the local and state level, and are members of the award winning Accordion Mart Senior Band which will perform at Expo in Montreal in August.

They will travel United Airlines accompanied by their instructor, Mrs. Jayne Slate, and other band members and parents.

Theodore Bikel, Al Hirt, Martha Raye Signed For Storowton

The signing of three more big-name attractions for Storowton Theatre in West Springfield, Mass., brought renewed hope to everyone who is interested in the famous summer tent theatre located on the Eastern States Exposition Grounds.

Definitely set for a one-nighter, Thursday, August 3, at 8:30, is the internationally renowned folksinger, Theodore Bikel, who was Mary Martin's leading man in the Rodgers and Hammerstein Broadway musical, "The Sound of Music."

And in the same first week of August, for a Saturday night appearance only, the fabulous Al Hirt and his Dixieland Band will be in the Storowton spotlight. Al Hirt, one of the greatest trumpet players in the business, brings his foot-stompin' music for one performance only, August 5 at 8:30.

Now for the frosting on the cake! The one and only Martha Raye, America's clown princess of comedy, darling of the G.I.'s, the world over, and one of Storowton's most favorite people, will bring her special revue to the tent theatre beginning August 7.

National Driver Register

Service Apprehends Violators

"The National Driver Register Service, a clearinghouse of information on driver licensing maintained in the Federal Highway Administration in Washington, D.C., is helping Massachusetts rid the highways of undesirable drivers," Registrar Richard E. McLaughlin said today.

He cited the case of a recent applicant for a license who failed to declare his previous convictions and revocations in other states. The customary search for information concerning this license applicant through the NDRS revealed numerous serious violations in five states involving liquor and operating while under suspension or revocation. The applicant was subsequently prosecuted in court, pleaded guilty, and fined for making false statements on his license application.

McLaughlin said that this is a typical example of what "false statements" can lead to and cautioned all license applicants to be aware of committing a similar offense.

As provided by the Highway Safety Act of 1966, all states furnish the register service with information on persons who have been denied licenses, or whose licenses have been suspended or revoked for any reason. The register receives information from the states on magnetic tape at a rate of 1700 names daily. These are stored in a data file and searched by electronic computer upon request of the states at a rate of 50,000 searches daily. The computer currently has a pool of two million names of serious offenders and can detect an identification even if there are variations in names and dates of birth.

Established in 1961, the register has conducted over 32,000,000 searches resulting in 200,000 identifications of persons warranting further investigation.

"The purpose of the National Driver Register is to remove objectionable drivers from the road," McLaughlin said, "and it is succeeding."

Career Futures In Medicine

It has been estimated that the nation will need 268,000 more professional nurses, 125,000 more practical nurses, at least 50,000 more physicians, 40,000 more speech pathologists, 38,000 more medical technologists, 30,000 more dietitians, and 18,000 more medical social workers within the next five to ten years. We will also need hundreds of thousands of auxiliary personnel in hospitals, laboratories, and other medical facilities during this same period.

According to Francis Keppell, assistant secretary for education, Department of Health, Education and Welfare, "We will need an average of 10,000 new people per month for ten years to meet the minimum requirements in the health area of the great society."

With these staggering figures, it is obvious that some carefully planned program must be initiated to meet the needs of the manpower shortage in the health career field. When we refer to "health career field," it should be remembered that in addition to doctors, dentists, nurses, etc., there is also a need for thoroughly trained personnel in paramedical vocations such as physical therapists, laboratory technicians, medical secretaries, medical librarians, medical social workers and scores of others who become involved in the overall and extended care of any sick person.

After careful research by both official and voluntary agencies concerned with this problem such as the Massachusetts Heart Association, it appears that it is necessary to stimulate interest in health careers in school children by means of carefully planned programs designed to draw the attention of our young people to the career opportunities available to them in the health field.

Through the cooperation of school superintendents and guidance counselors, many schools already have educational material, films, and qualified speakers included as part of their curriculum to stimulate and guide their students in choosing and planning their careers. This activity will have to be greatly increased if we are to realize our goals.

In some instances, hospitals themselves have instigated programs for interested students. Groups of students are brought to the hospital for a conference and are usually handled on a "team" approach. For example, in a nursing session, the student would be introduced to a surgical nurse, a bedside care nurse, a psychiatric nurse, an obstetrical nurse, and a pediatric nurse. Each different aspect of nursing would be discussed and the session would then be turned over to the students to ask questions on any phase of nursing of interest to them.

The above are just two examples of how conscious efforts are being made to meet the demands for trained personnel in the health field. If we are to fully meet the demands in years to come, a continuing program stimulating interest in the health career field must be developed and maintained to its fullest. In addition, it may be necessary to make training more readily available to those who are qualified, by the development of many more in-service training programs, by expanded scholarship programs and by the establishment of additional courses and programs in our schools of continuing education.

The challenge is great. It must be met if we are to fulfill our commitment to provide the maximum in health care for all our people.

PROJECTS TO HELP MAKE MASSACHUSETTS BEAUTIFUL

Every single penny of $1,402,803 allocated in fiscal 1967 by the Federal Government to Massachusetts for scenic "enhancement" of roadsides was committed by Saturday, June 30, end of the fiscal year, State DPW Commissioner Edward J. Ribbs reported to Governor John A. Volpe today.

Work completed or to be undertaken under the program comprised 12 extensive landscaping projects and the creation of seven new roadside rest areas—everywhere from the Cape to the Berkshires. In addition, there were five contracts advertised for the screening of automobile junkyards in eight areas of the Commonwealth.

Massachusetts was the first state in the nation to submit to the Federal Bureau of Public Roads a comprehensive statewide system of Scenic Roads and Parkways, a first requirement for obtaining federal funds for this purpose.

GUIDING FLOWERING SHRUBS

Early summer is the ideal time to improve the shape of many flowering shrubs and to increase their probable flowering production next year. The Massachusetts Nurserymen's Association suggests that most flowering shrubs be given some pruning after they have completed their flowering display.

Small shrubs will not require the removal of much wood, but they will be healthier if crossing or diseased branches are taken out of the plant before greater damage occurs. Slender and open plants will grow thicker this year if tips of existing branches are removed to encourage more branching.

Shrubs which have reached their proper height may be kept in shape attractively by removing one quarter of the biggest, oldest branches right down to the base of the plant and then shortening the longest remaining shoots. This removal pruning will produce a more natural shape than the more common shearing of the tips of all the branches, and it will develop more young branches which will bear more flowers in the future.

Most of the spring flowering shrubs should be pruned in June or July, and the summer flowering types can be pruned in the fall or the early spring.

Forsythia, spirea, honeysuckle and mockorange are more likely to need firm pruning than the slower-growing azaleas, dwarf deutzia, and flowering almond.

Most shrubs are pruned with short or long handled pruning shears. Heavy branches may need a narrow bladed saw, and light tips can be cut with a pruning knife. Most pruning wounds less than half an inch in diameter normally do not need to be treated. Larger wounds, and even small wounds on weakened shrubs, should be covered with tree healing paint until the new bark has grown over to protect against infections.

Traffic accidents are the leading cause of death among persons from ages 5 to 31, the President's Committee for Traffic Safety reports.

This audio and visual educational service provides information which enables everyone to learn how to better protect their hearts and the hearts of their loved ones.
